A NEW YEAR'S JEU D'ESPRIT.

Sweet Susie Brown! my pretty one!
I'm sure you must remember
If not for love at least for fun
The sleigh ride in December,
When all the village belles and beaux,
In spite of frost would go forth,
And squeeze beneath the buffaloes,
Each other's hands, &c.

How brightly streamed the northern lights,
Above the snowy ridges.
How pleasant were the wintry nights
Observed from country bridges!
When "roll" id sought with such address,
'Mid laughter, fun and flattery,
And lovers fed afraid the press
Each other's hearts, et cetera.

'Tis very singular and queer,
Of all the mad devices.
Love's flame should burn so bright and clear.
On fuel formed of ices;
And yet we know it flames indeed,
And will brilliantly will glow forth.
When fanned by Hymen's flying steed,
Matrimony, &c.

Then you know the village inn,
The supper and the revel;
How, in the general dire and din,
Love shot his arrows level;
And don't forget how Henry Kidd
Embraced you in the buttery;
You kissed his lips—you know you did—
And he kissed yours, et cetera.

And when the forfeits all were paid,
How one old maid resisted,
Until the youngest ladies said,
A prude they all detested.
"Dear Sue," she cried—the ancient Ann—
"From duty to show forth,
I'll kiss you old to any man
My virgin lips," &c

The winds, the homeward way,
Blew chilly in our forces,
And underneath our furs we lay,
All snugly in our places:
One girl upon the forward seat—
The pretty Nellie Satterlee,
Declared Jack Frost had pinched her cheek,
And Billy Frost, et cetera.

Another underneath her robe,
(The buffaloes not her dresses)
Fair Patience with attendant Job,
Detected in caresses—
Sprang up with angry blushing face,
Her innocence to show forth,
But showed her curls were out of place,
Her collar gone, &c.

And then the parting at the door!
Its touch, mutual blisses;
Sweet lips, from them abundant store
Gave to the poor in kisses.
The parting word—the long embrace—
(Cupid's most dangerous witchery,)
Brought fun to many a boyish face,
And raised sweet hopes, et cetera.

Dear Susie Brown—save you and I,
Of all that load of merriment,
No other pair are left to try
Love's latest, best experiment;
And when the coming snows shall spread,
Our mutual hopes shall glow forth.
May heaven bless our nuptial bed,
There's coming joys, &c

HOME TESTIMONY

Mt. Gilead, Morrow Co., O. March, 1859.

DR. C. W ROBACK—Dear Sir: I have been afflicted during the last six years with general debility—no particular disease, but general prostration I procured of your agent here, Mr. Enos Miles; some of your Scandinavian blood purifier and blood pills, and have been using them during the last four months in this manner: I take the purifier in the morning, and when I feel worse than usual one pill at night, and am in better health at present than for the last six years. I have used various medicines in that time, all to no purpose. I now use the pills in my family, and I think they are the best family medicine I ever used. 4t W. COOPER.

A profuse and many times excessively offensive discharge from the nose with stopping of the nose at times, impairment of the sense of smell and taste, watering or weak eyes, impaired hearing, irregular appetite, occasional nausea, pressure and pain over the eyes, and at times in the back of the head, occasional chilly sensations, cold feet and a feeling of lassitude and debility are symptoms which are common to catarrh, yet all of them are not present in every case Dr. Roback's Catarrh Remedy cures catarrh in its worst forms and stages. It is pleasant to use, and contains no poisonous or caustic drugs. Sent by mail on receipt of sixty cts. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOW ALICK SHOT THE PANTHER.

I am going to tell you a true story of some children I knew when I lived in Texas. Auck was then ten years old, Mary was eight and Etta was only four.

They had lost their father and mother, but had a big brother Frank, and the best sister in the world, Sallie; as she took just as good care of them as their own dear mother could have done.

They lived far off in Western Texas, on the edge of a wide prairie. Do you know what a prairie is? Just think if you could see nothing on either side of you but one great field of waving grass and beautiful flowers reaching away, away, far away to where the blue sky seems to bend down and touch it. That is a prairie.

Well, brother Frank's fields were on the prairie; but the log house in which they lived was in the edge of the woods that bordered it.

The trees were not such as you know about. They were live oaks, which stay green all winter; pecans, which bear the nicest nuts; dogwood, with large white flowers; holly, with glossy leaves and bright red berries; and, best of all, the stately magnolia, which is almost too grand to talk about in a small magazine like this.

There was a great magnolia growing by a spring not far from the house; and this was the place where the children liked best to play.

One bright Saturday afternoon, they had gone to the spring as usual, to have a nice time, and Sallie was busy making a jacket for Alick, when suddenly the little boy came rushing into the house and seized his brother's gun which stood in the corner.

'O Alick!' cried Sallie, 'how often must you be told not to touch that gun.'

'Cant help it this time, sister Sallie; there's a big Panther up in our tree, and I'm bound to shoot him'

'But where are Mary and Etta?'

'Oh! They are down there looking him right in the eye, so that he may not go off till I get back.'

He was running with all his might as he spoke. Poor Sallie! her heart seemed to stand still; but it was no time to faint. She caught up the horn with which she used to call Frank to dinner, and blew a blast which she knew he would understand to mean danger. Then she wrote on the door in large letters, 'To the spring, quick;' and followed Alick with all the speed that love and fear could lend her.

The boy reached the spot a little before her. When she came in sight, there was the frightful beast stretched out on a bough of a tree, growling low, and looking down with fiery eyes at the little girls who stood hand in hand gazing steadily up at him, and never thinking of the danger.

Bang went the gun, and the panther fell to the ground.

Presently Frank arrived. Sallie had sunk down at the foot of the tree, clasping the little girls.

Alick stood looking at his prize; and you may be sure he got plenty of praise; only he was told that he should never again leave his sisters alone in the woods to keep guard over a panther.—The Nursery.

ONE WEEK FROM MY DIAREE.

BY JOSH BILLINGS.

Monday—Had suckers for breakfast. Suckers and sassidges are the 2 luxurys ov life; the other luxury is easy boots.

Tuesday—Awoke with a splendid hedake, caused by drinking too much water the evening previously and goin to bed at nine o'clock precisely. Breakfasted on the butt of a sassidge and felt like a dorg.

Wednesday—Rekoleeted of asking a man is Misseory if beans was a sure krop in his parts. He said they wuz "as certain as a revolver." Reflekted o the danger of carryin concealed weepins. Rekolekted agin ov bein in Nu Hamshire durin a severe sno storm, and innocently remarked that I never see ennything like it, and wuz told by one ov the barroom boarders that it warn't nothin; he hed seen it fall over a thousand feet. "What?" sed I, 'a thousand feet on the level?" "No,' sed he, 'but a thousand feet from on high." I reflekted how easy it waz for sum folks to lie and tell the truth at the same time.

Thursday—Rekolekted once more ov bein on Red river, in Arkinsaw, and seen a large piece ov frame work by the side ov the road; inquired ov a private citizen who wuz leadin a blind mul by 1 ov his ears, what the frame work mought be. He said it was "a big fiddle, and took 3 yok ov oxen to draw the bow, and they had to haw and gee to change the tune. Reflekted on that passage in the poet which sez, "man is fearfully and wonderfully made;" and thort the remark might apply to fiddles in Arkinsaw without spiling the remark.

Friday—Visited my washwoman and blowed her up for sewing ruffles and tuks on the bottoms of my drawers. She was thunderstruck at first, but explained the mystery by saying she had sent me by mistake, a pair that belonged to ———. I blushed like biled lobsters and told her she must be more keerful about such things; I might have bin ruined for life.

Saturday—Writ this diaree for the week from memry, and I am satisfied I've got a good memry. Reflekted on the vanity ov human wishes, reflekted how often I'd wished to be rich, and how seldom my wishes had bin gratified. Resolved in the future not to wish for ennything until I had it 3 weeks and see how I liked it.

HOW TO BE HANDSOME.

Most people like to be handsome. Nobody denies the great power that any person may have who has a good face, and who attracts you by good looks, even before a word has been spoken. And we see all sorts of devices in men and women to improve their good looks—paints and washes and all kinds of cosmetics, including a plentiful anointing with dirty hair oil.

Now, not every one can have good features. They are as God made them; but almost any one can look well, especially with good health. It is hard to give rules in a very short space, but in brief these will do.

Keep clean—wash freely and universally with cold water. All the skin wants is leave to act freely, and it will take care of itself. Its thousands of air holes must not be plugged up

Eat regularly and simply. The stomach can no more work all the time, night and day, than a horse; it must have regular work and regular rest.

Good teeth are a help to good looks. Brush them with a soft brush, especially at night. Go to bed with the teeth clean. Of course, to have white teeth, it is needful to let tobacco alone. Any powder or wash for the teeth should be very simple. Acids may whiten the teeth, but they take off the enamel or injure it.

Sleep in a cool room, in pure air. No one can have a clean skin who breathes bad air. But more than all, in order to look well—wake up the mind and soul.

When the mind is awake, the dull, sleepy expression passes away from the eyes. I do not know that the brain expands, but it seems to. Think, read—not trashy novels, but books that have something in them. Talk with people who know something; hear lectures and learn by them.

This is one of the effects of good preaching. A man thinks and works, and tells us the result. And if we listen, and hear, and understand, the mind and soul are worked If the spiritual nature is 'aroused, so much the better. We have seen a plain face really glorified by the love of God and man which shone through it. Let us grow handsome. Men say that they can't afford books, and sometimes they don't even pay for their newspaper. In that case, it does them little good—they must feel so mean while reading it. But men can afford what they really choose. If all the money spent in self indulgence, were spent in books, and self improvement, we could see a change. Men would grow handsome, and women too. The soul would shine out through the eyes. We were not to be mere animals. Let us have books and read them, and sermons, and heed them.—Health Reformer.

The schism which has broken out in Utah seems more serious on closer examination, and Brighamy or Polygamy is shaken to its base as an institution. For a long time the ugliness of the Unveiled Prophet of Mormondom has been growing upon the dislke of his too cowardly subjects, and a spiritual revolution not without due regard for all the well-known fleshpots in Utah has set in. The schismatics have come to know that King Brigham is a mean trader, a swindling railroad man, and a bad prophet. He started a scheme of co-operative merchandising"—why did he not think of co operative housekeeping?—and obtained a contract valued at millions from the Pacific Railroad. The result is that he has grown rich and not Godly. His opponents under one Godbe, a man of four wives and seventeen children, have pronounced for a greater degree of spiritual democracy than they now enjoy. They call themselves the Church of Zion, and to the number of two-hundred and fifty have taken their lives in their hands. They are humbugs, of course, but in arraying themselves against the monarchy of Brigham are opposing a greater humbug. What the influence of the grossly selfish system and the bastard ideas of Utah is likely to be, if unchecked, upon the public virtue of the country, a perusal of the thorough statement of the Mormon situation presented elsewhere will suggest —N. Y. Tribune.

An Irishman went to live in Scotland for a short time but did n't like the country. 'I was sick all the time I was there,' he said, 'and if I had lived there till this time I'd been dead a year ago.'

A Connecticut farmer going on a spree gave his pigs a large quantity of meal, telling his neighbor that 'he had given his hogs enough fodder to last till he came back if they were prudent of it.'

The first woman student regularly admitted to the university of Michigan is Miss Maddie Stockwell of Kalamazoo. Her examination showed her to be in many respects in advance of her class.

Massillon Independent.

VOL VII---NO. 35 MASSILLON, OHIO. FEBRUARY 23, 1870. WHOLE NUMBER, 347.

INDEPENDENT.

According to the Salem and other papers it appears that the grogsellers of that town find by earnest experience that Jordan is a hard road to travel. The town authorities have enacted an ordinance forbiding the sale of intoxicating liquors, and disobeying this authority the mayor with a hearty good will, fortified and sustained by a wholesome public sentiment, is not tender about punlishing these delinquents. Two of them recently have not only had to pay heavy fines, but suffer penance in the body by residing in the county jail, where they don't wear such very fine linen, and fare sumptuously every day. It is supposed that the grogselling fraternity there will try to overturn the authority of this wholesome ordinance, but they may as well spend their efforts in trying to reform their manners, and cease to violate the laws, and they will stand a far better opportunity of attaining respectability, and be saved much annoyance from the goadings of a guilty conscience.

THE BALTIMORE RAILROAD.

A survey is being made for a railroad line from Pittsburgh to Toledo, via. Smith's Ferry, Bolivar, Wilmont, &c. We learn that there is intense excitement along the proposed new line. Over the signature of Observer, some well posted individual says:

"A line of railway, to be successful as a competing line for through freight and passengers, as is the ultimate design of this enterprise, and with the most flattering prospects of success, should be located upon the shortest possible line that will admit of easy grades, and, consequently the least variation from a direct line between the principal points sought to be reached. Assuming, as this road will, almost the proportions of a national highway, connecting more directly than any other line the great northwest with the capital of the nation, it should be turned aside by no mere local interests or personal aspirations. A reference to the map will show that the Belmont county line is too far south and the Salem and Akron line too far north to accomplish these objects. A line adjacent to and along the waters of the Little Beaver to New Liberty; thence in a northwesterly direction by very easy grades and an almost direct line to the headwaters of the Mahoning; thence by the valley of that stream to the western limits of Columbiana Co., and leave that stream by easy grades in the direction of Canton, Alliance or Wooster, as would best answer the design in the construction of the road, it is believed would suggest itself as the most practicable route between the two extremes, and would probably combine more local advantages than any one named. There is a deep ravine connecting the headwaters of the west fork with those of the Mahoning, thus affording a natural passage thro' these fertile valleys for a distance of ten or twelve miles. It was through this passage that the late Professor Mitchell made a survey many years ago, when the idea was first conceived of connecting the Ohio river with lake Erie by rail, and had this line ultimately been adopted instead of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh road, it would have saved a large expenditure of money and several miles in distance. The route above indicated, with some variations is the one just surveyed by J. E. Pillsbury and his assistants, under the supervision and employ of Baltimore, Pittsburgh & Chicago Railroad company. It is understood that he is under instructions from the board to review this route, make some corrections, and extend it by the valley of the Mahoning instead of the high land, south of it, which it is believed will insure a very favorable report as to distance, grades and cost of construction.

I had intended alluding to the vast mineral resources of the valley of the Little Beaver in the vicinity of New Lisbon and between that place and the river, but this article is already too long. Suffice it to say that iron ore, coal, salt, and building stone, all of superior quality, are found here in great abundance. Let the competing routes have full hearing and thorough investigation, and let the decision be on real merit alone."

RULES FOR SCHOLARS.

The following excellent rules for scholars are taken from Northend's Teacher's Assistant:

1. On entering the school, pass as quietly as possible to your seat, taking care to close the door gently, and avoid making unnecessary noises with the feet in crossing the room.

2. Take out books, slate, etc., from your desk with care, and lay them down in such a manner as not to be heard. Avoid making a rustling noise with papers, or noisly turning over leaves of books. Never let the marking of a pencil on your slate be heard.

3. Be careful to keep the feet quiet while engaged in study; or if it be necessary to move them, do it without noise.

4. In passing to and from recitations, observe whether you are moving quietly. Take special care if you wear thick shoes or boots, or if they are made of squeaking leather.

5. Avoid the awkward and annoying habit of making a noise with the lips while studying.

6. Scuffling, striking, pushing, or rudeness of any kind, should never be practiced at all within the school-building.

7. Let your shoes or boots be cleaned at the door-steps; always use the mat, if wet or muddy.

8. Never suffer the floor under your desk, or the aisles around it, to be covered by papers, or anything else dropped on it.

9. Avoid spitting on the floor; it is a vulgar, filthy habit.

10. For cleaning your slate you should provide yourself with a piece of sponge, and should moisten it with clean water before school opens, or at recess.

11. Marking or writing on the desk, walls, or any part of the building or school premises, with pencil, chalk, or other articles, manifests a bad taste, or a vicious disposition to destroy and deface property. None but vicious, reckless, or thoughtless persons will do it.

12. Knives should never be used in cutting anything on a desk.

13. Particular care should be observed to avoid spilling ink anywhere in the school building.

14. Let your books, etc., be always arranged in neat and convenient order in your desk and upon it.

15. After using brooms, dust brushes, etc., always return them to their places.

16. Be ambitious to have every part of your school in so neat and orderly a condition that visitors may be favorably impressed with this trait of your character.

17. Never meddle with the desk or property of another scholar without liberty.

18. Boys should never wear hats or caps in the school room.

19. Always be in your own place, and busy about your own duties.

THE SECRET HISTORY OF JOHN BROWN'S RAID.

Brown and five of his men arrived in Detroit with fourteen slaves from Missouri, in the summer of 1858. One of the slaves gave birth to a male child on the way. The boy was named John Brown, and now lives in Windsor. By a strange coincidence, Fred. Douglass happened to be lecturing in this city the same evening that Brown arrived. After the lecture the leaders of the insurrectionary movement got together in the house of Wm Webb, on Congress st, near Antoine st., and arranged the plan for the raid on the south, which broke out prematurely at Harper's Ferry.

Mr. Webb was for years manager of the plug tobacco factory on Jefferson ave. He is now dead. The leading colored people of Detroit and Chatham were also present at the meeting. Douglass objected to Brown's plan, which originally was to make raids on single plantations until he had collected a force of about 1,000 slaves, and then swoop down on the larger towns and cities, collecting force as he progressed. Brown grew wrathy, and asked Douglass if he was a coward, and referred to his successes in Kansas as an augury of the Virginia campaign. Douglass replied that he was not a coward, and would give material aid to the plan if he did not approve of it, or go himself.

George De Baptiste also disapproved of the plan, but proposed a gunpowder plot by which seme fifteen of the largest churches in the south would be blown up on a fixed Sunday. Brown objected to that plan on the score of humanity, asserting that by his plan not a hundred lives would be lost, his intention not being to shed blood unless it was absolutely necessary. De Baptiste still urged radical measures, declaring that Brown's plan would fail, and perhaps cause the loss of a million of lives before the troubles likely to ensue were ended. He cited in support of his position the fact that the Nat Turner insurrection, in 1831, by which fifty-three white lives were lost, had the effect of causing the next Virginia legislature to consider a bill for the emancipation of the slaves, which bill was lost only by two votes.

Ossawatomie's counsel finally prevailed, and the only favor besides money and advice that he asked of his Detroit friends was to furnish him one man, which they did—a Chathamite. The news of the disturbance at Harper's Ferry, which took the nation with so much surprise, was perfectly well understood by the colored people of this city. They had anticipated the event, since one Foster had divulged in Washington the plans of Brown, who in consequence, was obliged either to abandon his enterprise or precipitate matters, even at fearful odds. He chose the latter alternative.

The sequel is sufficiently well known. These facts, however, have been kept with sworn secrecy, until lately, by the colored men of Detroit. The particulars have never been published. It may only be necessary to add that subsequent to the meeting at Webb's house on Congress street, a meeting was held in Chatham, at which the 'cap sheaf' was put on the plan. Now that the negroes are equal, politically, before the law, they have no fear in letting their connection with this affair be known. They glory in it.

What is the difference between editorial and matrimonial experience?—In the former the devil cries for copy, in the latter the copy cries like the devil.

POPULAR SUPERSTITION CONCERNING BELLS.

Ducange tells us of a bell at Leinster, in Ireland, which had been carried there from a distant parish church, and had to be exorcised every night and fastened to its belfry, or it would, as it frequently did, return overnight to its former place of residence. If a bell had been buried underground it found no rest in the earth or the water; pious ears heard it ring, and thus led to their happy return to the light of heaven and a useful career. Thus it happened in Valencia in 1499: an old woman, who piously came every evening to say her prayers in a chapel of the Virgin, repeatedly heard the ringing of a bell beneath her knees. She was so urgent in her demand to have the matter investigated that at last the pavement was taken up, and search was made, and a few feet below a large bell and an image of the Virgin were found, where they had probably been hid by early Christians in time of war.

Nor does popular superstition forget the arch-enemy of all churches and of whatever aids the cause of the church; hence the devil goes about eagerly trying to injure and destroy bells. Even the little bell by which St. Benedict's friend used to announce to him his daily arrival with provisions excited the ire of Satan, and he crushed it under a huge rock which he threw upon it from on high. As consecration makes bells safe against his machinations, he pursues them especially before they have been baptized, and many a story is current in all countries of unlucky bells that were cast down from steeple and belfry because they had not been duly christened. On the other hand, bells have great power over the Evil One, and can drive him and his wicked spirits from the neighborhood, as far as their sound can be heard. This special endowment they owe generally to some virtue in the pious man who has consecrated them.

Other bells it is firmly believed, have a mysterious power of ringing by their own volition, generally for the purpose of announcing some public calamity or sudden death, and of thus warning men to prepare their minds. It is surprising to learn how general this superstition is on the continent of Europe, and even in England, and how firmly this faith seems to be established in the minds of otherwise enlightened men. Benedictine and Dominican convents especially used to boast, in former days, of bells which would unfailingly announce by their spontaneous ringing the impending death of one of their brethren. The most famous bell of this kind is one belonging to the Church of Nicholas, at Vehlla, in Argon; it measures ten yards around, and bears two crosses on the outside, one toward the east and the other toward the west. Whenever a great public calamity impedes on the land it begins to ring itself a few months before, and the records of the town state that careful search has been made in many cases to ascertain if sudden gusts of wind, mischievous men, or earthquakes might not have caused the phenomenon, but in vain. At least nine great calamities were thus announced beforehand, of each of which careful entries were made at the time in the records of the town and of the kingdom of Aragon, and countless explanations were given by priests and prelates.—Harper's Magazine.

SIGNATURE OF THE CROSS.

The mark which persons who are unable to write are required to make instead of their signature, is in the form of a cross; and this practice, having formerly been followed by kings and nobles, is constantly referred to as an instance of the deplorable ignorance of ancient times. This signature is not, however, invariably a proof of such ignorance. Anciently, the use of this mark was not confined to illiterate persons; and it is still always used by Roman Catholic bishops as a part of their signatures. Among the Saxons, the mark of the cross, as an attestation of the good faith of the person signing, was required to be attached to the signature of those who could not write. In those times, if a man could write or or even read, his knowledge was considered as presumptive proof that he was in the holy orders. The word clericus or clerk way synonomous with penman; and the laity or people who were not clerks did not feel any urgent necessity for the use of letters.

The ancient use of the cross, therefore, was universal, alike by those who could and those who could not write; it was, indeed, the symbol of an oath from its holy associations, and generally the mark. On this account, Mr. Charles Knight, in his notes to the Pictorial Shakspeare, explains the expression of 'God save the mark,' as a form or ejaculation approaching the character of an oath. This phrase occurs three or four times in the plays of Shakspeare; but hitherto it had been left by the commentators in its original obscurity.

Two Dollars a year, in advance.

Massillon, Wednesday, Feb. 23.

SHOUT!—For the "Constitutional Amendment—YES" has prevailed. Four millions of black people can shout in Greek, and say Eureka, we have found it, while some other millions of so-called democrats may wail in Latin and say peccavi, we have sinned and got licked. Like good forgiving Christians let us now rejoice with those who are glad, and weep (just a little) for those who are disconsolate in consequence of the grand victory. For this campaign we have no further use for the three magical words, and so withdraw them, as they have played their veni vidi vici, and did it well, and there is no going back.

Here are the documents for proof of the above. For the amendment, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont. New York, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin. Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisana, Florida, Nebraska, Nevada, Texas—30. Against the amendment, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, California, Oregon—6.

Following is the wholesome amendment:

ART. XV. § 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

§ 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

POSTAGE MATTERS.—Some weeks ago the house of representatives of congress took a vote on the abolition of the franking privilege, and the result was almost unanimously in favor of doing it away. It is an abuse which ought to be reformed, for one great result seemingly inseparable from the practice is that of overburdening the mails with tuns of useless, deadhead matter in the shape of public documents, not one in a thousand of which is ever read by those to whom they are sent. But coupled with this measure are said to be certain onerous provisions which will affect another class of people disadvantageously, and that is the county newspaper men. These zealous congressmen, like the pendulum of a clock, swing to the other extreme, and because they should not burden the mails with their ponderous loads of documents, therefore newspaper men shall be required to prepay postage on all the papers sent out, even in their various counties (now free), and also pay postage on their exchanges. Some of the big daily papers go for all these extreme measures, and they probably can afford to. At an expense to somebody of a hundred thousand dollars or more they have been started, and thus enabled to carry on a heavy business, often at the expense of comparatively poor county printers, on whom they often rely to do any amount of blowing for them, and thus spread their circulation where it might never penetrate. It is pleasant to receive a daily at our offices and we venture to say it is quite as agreeable to these dailies to receive our weeklies, wherefrom they frequently procure not a little portion of interesting matter with which to fill their columns. All this is comfortable, and mutually advantageous while the mails are not burdened with tuns of useless, unread matter from these sources.

Everybody knows, however, that the country printer is quite differently situated. Very few of this class are wealthy, and nine-tenths of such papers are continued in existence only by close economy and unceasing industry. To require such men to prepay postage, unless reduced to an extremely low figure, will cripple many of them, while not a few may have to go out of existence. Perhaps some may think there are too many newspapers in the country, but when we want to boast of the intelligence of the American people, it is with pride that we can point to some three thousand of these mediums of intelligence. And although owned and conducted by comparatively poor men, in a vast majority of cases, these same papers are a power in the land. For our national legislators, then, to attempt to meddle with the prosperity, and even existence of this class of journals, looks to us as if they mean to interfere with that very power which aids greatly to make or unmake our rulers. Let us let these poor fellows alone—the law as it is has proved a good one by experience and nobody is injured by it.

Taking another view of the question, and these proposed measures will appear, as they really are, more absurd and unjust. Country printers, on an average, are not worth more than $3,000, taking all they have, and many are far below that sum. But how is it with those reforming congressmen? Each member of congress receives five thousand dollars a year. Now these poor fellows want to make many of us who don't get five hundred dollars a year apiece, and work hard twelve months out of the year, while they get ten times that sum for working three months one session, and perhaps six or eight months the next session. The whole thing is unequal, unjust, and unrighteous, and so it will be viewed by the American people. For many years we contended for cheap postage—from six up to fifty and seventy-five cents, according to the distance, on a letter down, to three cents, and hope to see it come down to two cents But we ask our chiefs to let the newspapers alone, and mend their own ways, because they can well afford to do so, and make money then if they are sober and economical.

Our legislators seem to be busily at work, and as far as we can ascertain, attending to the various duties expected of them, without attempts to play off in the sensational way, by doing something out of their line of business. It is expected that the session will be a comparatively brief one, and if so it will be a source of pleasure to the tax payers. Now if this legislature could only carry out the spirit of the new constitution, by not meeting again next year, as that instrument contemplates, their action would be popular, and our people probably not suffer much from this practical application of the biennial provision.

STATE FAIR.—The committee having charge of this question have decided that the next state fair be held at Springfield, Clark county. The city is described as a large, growing and enterprising place, and so favored with railroad facilities as to make it easily accessible from any part of Ohio—and then the location is more central than that of some of the competing places. Our Cleveland neighbors seem dissatisfied with this decision, and talk of getting up a northern Ohio fair. Better let that alone—one fair will be better than two. But this disaffection is one of the results of changing the place of these annual fairs almost every time. If a central location was once established then people would know where to go every year, and the place designated could be better prepared for their reception. The present place may have advantages, but it certainly is not without its disadvantages.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

WHAT THE DOCTOR'S SAY:

Amos Woolly, M. D. of Kosciusko county, Indiana, says: For three years past I have used Allen's Lung Balsam extensively in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung diseases in use.

Isaac R. Doran, M. D. of Logan Co., Ohio, says: Allen's Lung Balsam not only sells rapidly, but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it, and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice, and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known.

Dr. Lloyd, of Ohio, surgeon in the army during the war, from exposure contracted consumption. He says: I have no hesitation in saying that it was by the use of your Lung Balsam that I am now alive and enjoying health.

Dr. Fletcher, of Missouri, says: I recommend your Balsam in preference to any other medicine for coughs, and gives satisfaction.

Allen's Lung Balsam is the remedy to cure all Lung and Throat difficulties; it should be thoroughly tested before using any other balsam. It will cure when all others fail Directions accompany each bottle. J. N. HARRIS & Co., sole proprietor, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CAHOON'S

Patent Broadcast Seed Sower,

FOR SOWING

Wheat, Oats, Hemp, Barley, Rye, Buckwheat, Grass Seed, Rice, Flax, &c.

The Hand Machine Costs only $10.

And sows from four to eight acres per hour at a common walking gait, throwing out wheat about forty feet wide.

The Horse Power Machine Costs Only $50

And at the usual walking gait of a horse, sows from ten to fifteen acres per hour By changing the discharger this machine sows Guano, Plaster, Lime, &c.

The hand machine, at a common walking gait, sows from four to eight acres per hour. The acknowledged superiority of these machines over all others has already placed them in the front rank of labor saving agricultural implements. A saving of four fifths of the labor, and one third of the seed used in hand sowing, is effected by using these machines. A person entirely unused to sowing by hand can use either machine with perfect success.

They are warranted to give perfect satisfaction, and to save their cost in less time than any farm implement yet introduced. They are substantially built, and with ordinary care will last many years.

D. H. GOODELL & CO.,

SOLE MANUFACTURERS.

Antrim, New Hampshire.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without parallel in the history of agricultural implements. It has probably received more first premiums at large fairs in the year 1869, than was ever awarded to any other machine, of any name or nature in one year.

It received the first premium at the great fair held at St. Louis, and at the New England fair held at Portland, Maine, and at the New York, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota; Iowa, Mississippi, and California State Fairs, and at multitudes of smaller fairs all over the country.

We warrant the hand machine to sow Fifty Acres of Wheat in Ten Hours, and the horse power machine to sow One Hundred and Twenty Acres in the same time, and the work to be done with greater precision and accuracy than can be done by agy other means whatever.

We might append hundreds of certificates, speaking its praise in the highest terms.

We, the Druggists of Massillon, call the attention of our customers to the letters published below of the wonderful efficacy of Dr Roback's Stomach Bitters, Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Blood Purifier, and Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Blood Pills. We have been selling these medicines long enough to know that they are all they are recommended to be, and that the certificates of cures published are true.

JOS. WATSON, EDWARD KACHLER

PLEASANT HILL, MISS., April 9, 1866.

DR. C. W. ROBACK,

Dear Sir:—Last fall my wife had the Liver Complaint so bad she was able to sit up but a few minutes at a time. I had a physician doctoring her for some time, but the medicine he gave her seemed to do her but little or no good. I was advised to get her a bottle of your Bitters, and let her try them, and see if they would help her. So I thought if one bottle would be good two would be better, and I got her two bottles, and when she had taken the last bottle she could do most of her house work. I got her one more which entirely cured her, and she looks the best I have seen her for four years. We recommended them to several of our neighbors who have used them with great success.

Monday morning was the coldest of the season, the mercury descending below zero from two to four degrees, depending some what on the locality in which the thermometer was placed. The cold snap causes rejoicing among the ice men, and they will take advantage of it vigorously.

Those who have bought calicoes at Humberger & Son's think them the best for the money, only one shilling for good standard prints.

Go and see how cheap Humberger & Son are selling dress goods of all kinds.

CARD.—The undersigned tenders his grateful acknowledgments to the fire department of Massillon, for their prompt and timely aid in extinguishing the fire at his dwelling, this morning, and especially for their judicious use of water, by which the premises were saved from the deluge, which so often on such occasions, does more damage than the fire. The thanks of the family are also due to the neighbors, and particularly the ladies whose careful and thoughtful attentions upon the occasion are beyond all praise. EDWIN BAYLISS.

If you want choice sugars, syrups, teas, coffees, spices, green and dried fruits, canned fruit, vegetables, or anything else in the grocery line, call at W. E. London's cheap cash store. Everybody knows that goods can be sold cheaper for cash than they can for credit, for we don't have to charge our cash customers enough to pay for the bad debts that may occur.

HOUSE BURNED.—On Wednesday night, Feb. 16th, the residence of David Leightley three miles south of Navarre, was discovered to be on fire: being a large frame building, and no assistance being at hand, as all the male persons were away from home, the house with most of its contents, excepting a few clothes were consumed, and those which were saved are in a damaged condition. House and contents valued at $5,000. No insurance.

FIRE!—This short monosyllable raised quite an excitement yesterday morning among our citizens, when it was found that the northwest portion of E Bayliss' dwelling was on fire. Firemen and citizens promptly ran to the rescue, and with comparatively little damage suppressed the flames. Here was but another evidence of the efficiency of our water works, which were found all ready for action, notwithstanding the severity of the cold. Just one year ago yesterday the dwellings of D. W. Huntsman and A. Peirce were entirely destroyed by fire. The fire yesterday is supposed to have resulted from a defective flue.

Flannels are reduced in prices so much at Humberger & Son's that any one using will not fail to buy.

ED. INDEPENDENT.—Dear Sir, As it is presumed that editors know much of the doings and mis-doings of city and township officers, will you be kind enough to let us know when we may expect a justice of the peace to fill the vacancy of J. Heckman, Esq. deceased: and while your hand is in, please let us know who it will be. We would suggest that it be a person who is well qualified and apt at the business, and one who will always be on hand to attend to the same, further we would suggest for the office R. H. FOLGER. RAMSDELL NORWAY OATS.—Our readers will see by the full advertisement in to-day's paper that Mr. Schilling of Salem means business. For many years we have known him to be a most liberal advertiser, and that he is convinced that it pays or he would not continue it. This new and prolific grain has been introduced into this portion of the country by his enterprise, and Mr. S. now offers our farmers opportunities for purchasing the oats and thus convincing themselves that it is no catch-penny humbug. The other evening he presented specimens of the heads of oats at this office which would astonish the most incredulous, some of them being from 12 to 18 inches long, and twenty-six stalks from one grain or root. As to the correctness of these statements there are plenty of testimonials bearing the signatures of intelligent farmers in various parts of the country, who have tried this rapidly multiplying grain, and know whereof they affirm.

Mr. Schilling also has for sale Cahoon's Patent Broadcast Seed Sower, a new and useful agricultural implement, adapted to the use for all kinds of grains. Having the trade mark he is the only authorized general agent in this region and farmers will do well to give him a call.

FINDING FAULT is one of the easiest and most common things in the world. This fact is measurably illustrated by the free criticisms that many of us indulge in, in regard to the doings of the city council. We confess to a share in this practice heretofore, in connection with the doings of these officials, but claim that naught was set down in malice. If these men have erred in the performance of their duties it seems to us the delinquency should be regarded as inseparable from all the doings of us humans—that is, we all make mistakes in the estimation of somebody. Their motives, we assume are designed for the right, and should not be impeached without most adequate cause. But with all the errors of commission or omission whereof they may be charged, whether rightly or not, is for others to decide, they are entitled to the thanks of the people of the city for many good and wholesome enactments, introduced for the good of this community. Fault is especially found of this body because they have not placed gas on the streets, and we, too, have been in that position. So far as we can ascertain there would be no difficulty in having this decided improvement if the personal wishes of every member could be gratified, but there are reasons, in their estimation, why the city is not yet ready for it. As they are working—without a cent of compensation—for the benefit of their constituents, and as it is but reasonable to presume that they are better posted as to the situation of affairs, financially and otherwise, as to readiness for the introduction of this much desired improvement, perhaps modesty would suggest to us that their judgments and conclusions should be respected. We doubt not that in due time our streets will be lighted with gas, and that our municipal authorities will have it done right when they undertake it. As there is no little amount of free criticism on the gas question by some of our good people, we have thought that a few words in extenuation of the course of our councilmen will not be amiss—not that they ask anything of the sort, but just seems to require it.

Our neighbor, Bro. C. N. Allen, editor and proprietor of the Steubenville Gazette has just improved very much the mechanical appearance of his paper, and makes a lively, enterprising weekly. Politics, antediluvian-

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Regular session—full board with the exception of Mr. Mong.

The select committee to whom was referred the accounts of Mr. Wm. Rodgers, late street commissioner, reported that they were unable to effect a settlement with Rodgers, and the report was laid on the table for one week.

Hon. G. Harsh presented to the council the result of a correspondence had by a committee appointed by the citizens to confer with Mr. Russell in reference to his claim against the city, and requested that the report be put on file with the city papers. Granted.

The solicitor reported a preamble and resolutions, in reference to a compromise with Mr. Russell, which were substantially as follows:

First, To offer Mr. Russell the amount he first claimed, with interest from the time the same was due, which amount is about $900 less than the amount sued for, with a reasonable allowance for extra work.

Secondly. Should Mr. Russell refuse the first proprsition, then to assure him of the willingness of the city to submit the matters in difference to an arbitrator in the manner pointed out by the statutes of Ohio.

Thirdly, In case neither of the above propositions be accepted, then the standing committee on streets shall be instructed to cause the entire work in the contract to be measured by a competent engineer, whose testimony can be had at the next term of the Court of Common Pleas.

Mr. Ogden moved the adoption of the last resolution, and the motion was lost.

Mr. Hering moved the adoption of the first resolution, which was also lost.

EPISCOPACY AND ROMANISM.

If I have made mistakes in my first article on Episcopacy and Romanism, I would be thankful to have them pointed out. Sufficient time has elapsed, since its first appearance, for this purpose; and our readers must judge if the accuracy of its statements has been disturbed. As Senior, for obvious reasons, does not feel disposed to review the history of the persons named, I will myself do it—if it is deemed necessary—when I can find leisure. As Senior desires, and justly, accuracy of statement, he will pardon me, if I call his attention to inaccuracies in his. He gives figures, representing the number of Episcopal church members, as he says, "three or four years ago." I have looked over the official records for ten years, and find no such figures. Take four years since, or six, he has not given two thirds of the number. Why not? (See Gen. Con. reports). The present number, with very imperfect returns from the south, of members is 205,245 of clergy 2,740—(See P. E Church Almanac 1870, published 3. Bible House N. Y.) This is more than double the members given by Senior, "three or four years ago."

2. I will call his attention to another statement: "The Episcopal Church is small in compari on with the churches of the world." As he gives no statistics, I will simply say that the Episcopal church in the world" is larger in the number of its ordained and settled pastors, and members than either of the three churches mentioned by him I will give my statistics and authority, when Senior furnishes his; and your readers shall judge if "The Episcopal dwindles into almost nothing."

There ought to be more going from the Episcopal church to the R. C. Church, numbers considered, than from other bodies—whereas it is just the reverse. To make this matter short I will ask Senior to state with authority, the number he knows to have gone from the Episcopal to the R. C. Church. I will then make my counter statement and give my authority.

I have little taste or time for controversy; but as your correspondents seem determined to keep this matter before the public, and still make the old charge without giving evidence of any kind for its basis, I will consent to a review of the whole question, upon the following conditions:

1st. Neither party shall indulge in the ridicule or abuse of any church or sect whatever. The creed of the R. C. Church, on the one hand, and the Shaker on the other, is as sacred to them as ours to us.

2. Quotations from an author shall be such as fairly represent the author. For instance, Loyalist cites from Stillingfleet, a remark made in his first work, published at the age of 21; but says nothing of a statement he makes in his last work, published at the age of 45—in which he says, "Will you not allow one single person—who happened to write about these matters when he was very young in twenty years of the most busy, and thoughtful part of his life to see reason to alter his judgment." Then he continues as follows, "There is great reason to believe the Apostolical succession to be of divine institution, as the canon of Scripture, or the observance of the Lord's day." Were I the highest churchman in the land, I could not make a stronger assertion. Did the quotation of Loyalist fairly represent Stillingfleet and was it pertinent to the purpose.

3. Each writer shall sign his communication with his own proper name, and during this discussion no communication, unless so signed, shall be admitted for publication.

4. The articles and replies shall follow each other in consecutive numbers of the paper, beginning with the next issue until the question is finally disposed of.

If Senior accepts these conditions, I will undertake to reply to his attempt to prove the statements contained in his last article.

Special Notices.

Errors of Youth.

A gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar street, N. Y. 307 1y

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only affects the physical health, but the dispositions and temper of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, to a great measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, seldomness, and despair, as the case may be. A person of delicate sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and deeds of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is frequently marked by exhibitions of tenderness foreign to his real nature. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid cannot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomac hand its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels. Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all, viz: sound rye. No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a real improvement in his health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him.

What Every Horseman Wants.

A GOOD CHEAP AND RELIABLE LINIMENT. Such an article is Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Liniment. Pint bottles at one dollar. For lameness, cuts, Galls, colic, sprains, &c., warranted better than any other. It is used by all the great horsemen on Long Island courses. It will not cure ring bone nor spavin, as there is no liniment in existence that will. What it is stated to cure it positively does.

No owner of horses will be without it after trying one bottle. One dose revives and often saves the life of an over-heated or driven horse. For colic and belly-ache it has never failed. Just as sure as the sun rises, just so sure is this valuable Liniment to be the horse Embrocation of the day.

Use it one and all. Sold by the druggists and storekeepers throughout the United States. Depot 10 Park, Place N. Y.

Thirty Deadly Poisons

according to the Journal of Chemistry, are sold in this market to change the color of the hair. The Medical Gazette says that they are worthless as dyes, and that their sale is a crime. The proprietors dare not submit them to chemical analysis.

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

on the contrary, has been analyzed by Prof. Chilton, the great analytical chemist, and pronounced absolutely harmless, as well as efficient. See his written certificate at Cristadoro's, Astor House, New York.

Christadoro's Hair Preservative, as a dressing, acts like a charm on the hair after dressing. Try it.

B. A. FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE.

This now over forty years established and offered as a remedy to the American people, its reputation is a steady increasing one, and its sales are unprecedented. It is universally known and used throughout nearly all parts of the world, and gives entire satisfaction. Worm Cakes, etc., and various other preparations have been resorted to for the purpose of plausibly exploiting the public, but the discovery of a safe, sure and effectual remedy for worms, has been left to be made by B. A. Fahnestock, and the A. Fahnestock Vermifuge is the one and only article that will do the work completely and entirely. Worms, of various kinds, cause fever, and sickness are more frequently the result of these hidden suppressors than is suspected.

When they are irritable and feverish, some restless evening feed and eating ravenously, at times grinding the teeth, then be assured the cause is worms. These indications of worms.

Pin worms and pain in the abdomen, with [illegible] and tickling, are generally attendant upon the presence of these hidden suppressors and miscreants.

A gradual wasting away or emaciation of the flesh is one of the most dangerous attendants upon worms. They absorb the animal juices, and destroy the nourishment imparted to the stomach by wholesome diet, thereby occasioning a variable appetite and a strong desire for indigestible food.

The stomach has, undoubtedly, a very great sympathy with other parts of the body. This is the case with respect to the irritation produced by worms, especially those existing in the stomach itself. They give rise to many other diseases, and patients often suffer incredibly without being aware of the cause.

Many a fretful child has been led to the grave, when the disease which caused its death has been [illegible] and when worms have been [illegible] It has not proved beyond [illegible] to the human system [illegible] therefore parents unnecessarily [illegible] and [illegible] with the effects of worms, cannot be too cautious of the first symptoms of worms, and by the timely use of B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge.

Physicians do not hesitate to recommend it and use it in their practice, and many of the most eminent of the profession, from all parts of the country testify to its unrivaled excellence. In fact, it never fails. It has frequently been given to enfeebled as a last resource, and unexpected the cause of the illness, and large quantities of worms were discharged and all sickness relief afforded.

Great caution must be used by every purchaser, to be his own judge in every case, and examine every bottle he buys of it. The simple name of Fahnestock is not sufficient. He must look carefully and carefully to see that the name of B. A. Fahnestock, and be satisfied with nothing else.

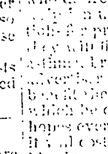
HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER



RESTORES GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR, PROMOTES ITS GROWTH AND IS A SPLENDID DRESSING. TRY ONE BOTTLE AND THICKEN UP THE THIN LOCKS!

Is the only perfected and scientifically prepared preparation of its kind ever offered to the public, and has no competitor in merit. By its use GRAY HAIR is soon restored to its original youthful color and brilliancy, which is so much admired by all. Persons whose hair is thin or falling out will, by the use of our Renewer, soon see its good effects, as, by its tonic and stimulating properties the hair glands will be incited and the hair grow thick and strong again. In cases of Baldness it will create a new growth unless the follicles are destroyed. It is cooling, and allays all itching and irritation of the scalp. It does not stain the skin as do dyes, but makes the scalp white and clean. As a DRESSING it is the best and most economical preparation in the world, as its effects last so much longer. Send for our Treatise on the hair, free to all, by mail.

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection and that dread disease, consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers his means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for consumption, asthma, bronchitis, &c. The object of the advertiser in sending the prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he receives to be invaluable; and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing. Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings Co. N. Y.—307 1y

Alcock's Porous Plasters

Step by step this comodity has attained its unprecedented fame. They are universally approved. They support, strengthen and aid the growth of muscles. They appear to have a peculiar effect upon the nerves, allaying irritability, while supplying warmth. They seem to accumulate electricity and aid the circulation of the blood through the part where applied, by which healthy actions are induced.

Even in paralysis, where articulation was suspended, the use of the porous plasters to the spine restored the articulation, and materially reduced the paralysis. In fact, the patient could help herself, while before the porous plaster was applied she was as helpless as a babe. We refer to Miss Sally Elliot, Springfield, Mass.

Legal Notice.

Freeman Edson, who is a non-resident of the State of Ohio, is hereby notified that F. P. Devin, as administrator of Frederick Shipley, deceased, has this day filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Stark County, Ohio, alleging that said Shipley left no personal property with which to pay his debts: that he died, seised in fee simple of the following premises, to wit: Sixty-nine feet front and rear off the north end of lot number ten in Duncan's addition to the town of Massillon, in the county and state aforesaid; that on the northerly fifty feet of said parcel of land, there is a mortgage, and that said mortgage was by said Shipley paid before his decease. The prayer of the petitioner is for the cancellation of said mortgage, and the sale of said premises. Said petition will be for the hearing at the February term of said court, 1870.

THE USE OF EYES.

A young friend of ours, about to commence a nautical career, was requested to call on an 'old salt' just previous to the sailing of the vessel in which the young aspirant was about to make his first trip to Hong Kong, in order to receive some useful advice. The call was accordingly made, and the somewhat laconic advice received, "Keep your mouth shut and your eyes open." This advice followed, in its true meaning, is valuable to those who dwell on land as well as those who go down to the sea in ships.

The eyes are, perhaps, the avenues through which more information, in regard to external things is gained than any other of the organs of special sense; but a very little observation will convince a careful student of human nature that most people are, to a certain extent, blind.

The horse dealer sees well, when he examines a horse. All the points of the animal good, bad or indifferent, come under review. An incipient spavin, or splint does not escape his questioning glance. He sees well because he is interested to see. But this same sharp inspector of horses drives by trees, stones, brooks—walks about through myriad beauties without more than perceiving the outlines of objects, and

"With eyes that hardly serve at most
To guard them master 'gainst a post."

And he is by no means an isolated case of this kind of blindness. It may be found in all professions and trades—not even the journalist being an exception, though the full use of the eyes is, to him, it would seem, if not an absolute necessity, at least something essential to highest success.

This want of power to see originates in the want of proper discipline. Men are born, if not totally blind, like puppies, yet, with eyes like all other organs and faculties, need to be perfected by education. But the blindness of which we speak is mental blindness. "Men have eyes but they see not." They pass through this world of life and beauty with eyes turned inward. The marvelous panorama of nature passes before them without more than a careless and indifferent glance, now and then, and its details of beauty and grandeur are all unnoticed. The lessons of wisdom they might gain by simply looking and reflecting, are lost through neglect. The eyes will see if the mind commands them.

We presume a large proportion of our readers may convict themselves of this mental blindness, by the simple experiment of looking closely at all the objects presented to their notice during a single hour of their existence. What ever these objects may be—stones, chips of metal or wood, leaves, roots, insects, bark, or what not—we venture to say none of ten may see something in each they never saw before, if they will look with the mind as well as the eye.

Herein lies the main difference between man with a full stored mind, and the man of little knowledge. Knowledge of natural things is mainly obtained by seeing. Humbolt was Humbolt principally through a judicious use of his eyes. One of the best habits a young man can cultivate is that of minute observation. Men, things, events should be scrutinized, not allowed to flit by without attention.

This habit will make a man of small natural ability a match for the careless observer possessing far greater talent, and it makes the man of fair talents great. It made Bacon, Newton, Franklin, Cuvier, Linnæus, Humbolt, Faraday, Tyndall, Rumford, Hemholts, and Huxley, great lights of science; the Watt, Stephenson, Arkwright, and others, the great mechanics whose labors have culminated in our present high civilization. In any capacity, whether in art, literature, or civilization or science, to be great, one must learn to see.—Scientific American.

From the Port Huron Mich. Times.

THE HORSE THAT MARSHALL RODE.

Among the heroes that Port Huron sent to the war was Archibold P. Campbell, who went from this city as Captain of Company K in the Second Michigan Cavalry, and succeeded Phil. Sheridan in the Colonelcy of that famous regiment, though, we believe, the eagle on his shoulder straps was displaced before his death by the General's star. While in camp at Grand Rapids, Captain Campbell wrote to his friend, E. J. Inslee, Esq., of this city, requesting him to purchase a horse that was large, well formed, and capable of great endurance. Mr. Inslee, one day in our streets happened upon such an animal, the property of a man living back of Lakeport, in this county, and after a careful examination, and thorough tests, purchased him for $175. Mr. Inslee describes to us the animal destined to be so famous in history, as a large well-made horse, sixteen or sixteen and a half hands high, of powerful frame, very dark brown, or what some would term black, color and four years of age. He was shipped to Campbell, at Grand Rapids, who received his purchase with great satisfaction. He rode him during the earlier years of the war, and John improved in appearance with the good treatment and care he received. He became a favorite in the regiment, as was, indeed a noble looking steed. Sheridan often expressed a wish to buy him of his friend Campbell, who, however, refused to sell him. Afterwards, he presented him to Gen. Sheridan, but at what time the present was made we are unable to state, as Campbells comrades in the city differ in regard to the time and place, one person fixing it at Franklin, Tenn., in April 1863, and the other at Danbridge in the winter following. The first time Sheridan rode him in an engagement was at the battle of Boonville, where the behavior of the horse under fire was all that could be desired. From that time he became his favorite horse until the ride from Winchester, which gave both horse and rider names that will be immortal in history.

MRS. ALLEN'S

Hair Restorer & Zylobalsamum

Are so uniformly grateful and beneficial, that they are with justice called the natural strengtheners of the human hair. They are two entirely separate and distinct preparations, not to be used together at one time.

Mrs. Allen's Hair Restorer

Never fails to satisfy the most refined and cultivated. A guarantee goes with every bottle, that it will quickly restore gray or white hair to its original youthful beauty, gloss and color; after its use a few times the hair will grow thicker and stronger. It will stop its falling and induce a healthy and luxuriant growth. It is an exquisite hair dressing, agreeable, harmless and healthy. Entirely different from most other preparations for the hair, its composition and ingredients are nourishing, giving life and vigor to the Roots.

Mrs. Allen's Zylobalsamum

This exquisite preparation is free from any sediment, and is a toilet treasure. The urgent want of a simple Hair Dressing, for the youth of both sexes, first induced the manufacture of the Zylobalsamum, and the sale of it is perfectly immense, not only in this country, but in Europe.

EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS.

"Your Zylobalsamum is used by every member, young and old, of our family, and we consider it invaluable. Should any gray hairs appear, we shall try your Hair Restorer, which we hear very highly spoken of."

"Father and mother use your Hair Restorer, and are delighted with it. It soon restored their gray locks to their youthful color, but daughters and son still find in the Zylobalsamum all their hair requires."

From the Principal of one of our large Female Seminaries: "Your Zylobalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."

$30 Hinkley Knitting Machine. $30

The most perfect machine yet invented. Will widen and narrow, turn a heel, or point the toe. It will knit plain or ribbed. It will knit stockings, drawers, shirts, hoods, comforters, mitters. It is cheap simple and durable. It sets up its own work, uses but one needle, and requires no adjusting whatever. It will do the same work that the Lamb machine will do, and costs less than half as much, and has not the tenth part of the machinery to get out of order. Circulars and samples mailed free on application. Agents wanted. All machines guaranteed.

This infallible remedy does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic catarrh, as thousands can testify. Cold in the head is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss or impairment of the sense of taste, smell, or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, when caused by the violence of catarrh, as they all frequently are. We offer $500 for a case of catarrh that we cannot cure.

For sale by most Druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents.

Ask your druggists for the remedy, but if he has not got it on sale, don't be put off by accepting any miserable worse than worthless substitute, but enclose 60 cents to me, and the remedy will be sent to you postpaid. Four packages $2, or one doz. for $5. Address the proprietor, R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. 333-3m
